

Does your cannabis provisioning center have structured data security and privacy policies and controls in place?

What actions would need to take place if customer personal data was breached, misused, or lost? Are these requirements identified by State, when applicable?

How does your business ensure the safeguarding of both your business's information and the personal information collected and stored from your customers?

4

What data security risks does your business face, both from internal and external sources?

Continue to learn more

How does your retail business answer these questions?

When considering data security and privacy policies and procedures, cannabis retailers may benefit from a strong and thorough approach.

Considering the data collected, stored, and accessed by provisioning centers, and the threat of both inside and outside gain from misuse of this information, it is important to be proactive.

Continue to learn more

Some of the sensitive information collected and stored by cannabis retailers includes personal identification information, patient information, financial card information, and private and confidential information.

A lack of federal regulation over many customer payment processing solutions currently available may also contribute to a lack of compliance with otherwise required data security and privacy controls.

Continue to learn more

To learn more about these topics and how we can help your business with its data security and privacy policies, control documentation, and resources to consider, please reach out using:

LEACIF.com/Contact

Innovate Your Expectations | Live Your Values | Define Your Control